The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

Université de Montréal

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol \rightarrow (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ∇ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

Université de Montréal

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole \rightarrow signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ∇ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

CHATEAU DE RAMEZAY

The Chateau de Ramezay

" I pray you let us satisfy our eyes with the memorials and the things of fame that do renown this city."

Such was the request of Sebastian to Antonio, in Shakespeare's " Twelfth Night " when he entered the city in Illyria, the residence of the Duke of Orsino. The same desire would be natural to a stranger visiting Montreal, were he of a reflective character, to see the buildings and places associated with the memory of departed worth or greatness. Unfortunately " the memorials and things of fame that do renown " Montreal are few, and these of comparatively recent date. The buildings of the past are fast disappearing .What a pity it is so. Where are the things of fame that renowned the city at the time of its surrender to Amherst in 1760, when it contained only 3,000 inhabitants? Where are the principal buildings that once stood between Dalhousie square along the line of Notre-Dame Street, and the Place d'Armes? Where are the " Old houses neatly built of stone, and the Chateau de Vaudreuil described by Kalm in 1749? Where are the Old Hospital founded by Madame de Bouillon in 1647, the Old Grev Nunnery, the old mill built by the Sulpicians in 1710, the old Recollet Monastery and Church, in which the first Presbyterian congregation organized in Montreal conducted worship after the manner of the Covenanters?

Alas! there is no trace of the old buildings left, which were erected at various periods during the reign of Louis XIV, of France, with the exception of the most renowned of all, the Chateau de Ramezay.

There stands no building the length and breadth of the Dominion, around which associate so many of the thrilling events, episodes and social life of our history, as pertain to this Chateau, the oldest public building in the country. Not only in French days but in those of our own era this building has occupied a prominent focal point from which diverged some of the greatest events of our history. Under the French regime, the Governors were appointed for the honor of the position, and so regarded it. The salary was small, and they had to pay for public as well as private entertainments and build their own palaces.

Claude de Ramezay, the 11th Governor of Montreal, appointed 1703, was born in France 1657, came to Canada in 1685, with a number of other young officers, in the suite of Governor de Denonville. He was then a lieutenant in de Troye's company of the Marine troops, which later took part in the expedition to Hudson's Bay. His promotion was rapid, being captain in 1687, later colonel, then commandant of troops and finally governor.

In 1687 he took part in the expedition against the Iroquois and in 1690 when Phipps appeared before Quebec, he brought over 800 men from Montreal for the defence of the former town.

History tells of the spirited defence made by Frontenac and his gallant officers, the latter, no doubt, being encouraged by the bright smiles of some of Quebec's fair daughters who it seems, lost no time in rewarding their brave defenders with their heart and hand. Scarcely had the last of Phipps' fleet disappeared around Point Levi, than de Ramezay led to the altar Melle Marie-Charlotte Denys, a daughter of Denys de la Ronde, one of the oldest and wealthiest families of Canada. His companion in arms, de Vaudreuil, at the same time, married Louise, daughter of Pierre de Joybert de Soulanges. Could they have seen into the future, their happiness would have been clouded by sorrow, for it was destined that a son of de Ramezay should be the one to open the gates of Quebec to the English in 1759, and a son of de Vaudreuil should do likewise, at Montreal, the following year.

De Ramezay was one of the most prominent men of his time, occupying an official position in Canada for a term exceeding forty years. He was Seigneur de la Gesse, de Montigny et Boisfleurent, in France, and in Canada was Seigneur de Monnoir and de Ramezay, Knight of the Military Order of St. Louis, Governor of Montreal and Commandant of all the militia in the country, and was administrator of the Governor-Generalship during the two years' absence of de Vaudreuil in France.

The Chateau was built in 1705. The neighborhood was then the fashionable part of the town, and was occupied by the Baron de Longueuil, the Contrecoeurs, d'Eschambaults, d'Aillebousts and Madame de Portneuf, the widow of Baron Becancourt. Situated on a hill and opposite to the magnificent garden of the Jesuits, this plain unembellished house had an open view to the river front.

Under de Ramezay's regime, 1703 to 1724, this venerable edifice was the hall of entertainment of the illustrious of the country. The many expeditions to the distant fur fields, the voyages of discovery of new lands, the councils of war, the military expeditions, the conferences with the Indians, the annual fairs and fur trading market, attracted to the shores of Montreal, not only the Governor-General, the Intendant, and their suites, but a considerable number of the most important people of the country, including all classes of society.

To one and all the portals of this hospitable mansion were ever open. To the lowly Indian and his squaw and to the exalted nobleman and his consort, the noble and beneficent Ramezay and his family showed equal attention. Fearless to the Indian or enemy, his bravery and charity were equally exemplified in the personal care and attention he and his family gave to the suffering citizens of Montreal during the pest which devastated the town in 1721.

De Ramezay died in 1724, and his family sold the Chateau to the Compagnie des Indes in 1745. The latter retained possession until the cession, 1763, when it was bought by Wm. Grant, Baron de Longueuil, who, in turn, disposed of it to the English Government for the sum of two thousand guineas. It thus became once again the residence of the Governors, and remained such up to 1849.

In 1775-6, the Chateau was the Headquarters for the Continental Army under Montgomery, and in the spring of 1776, there came Benjamin Franklin, Carroll of Carrollton, and Samuel Chase, envoys sent by Congress to influence the French Canadians to join the colonies in the revolt against British rule. Then came Benedict Arnold, who occupied the Chateau for several weeks.

Lord Metcalfe was the last resident governor, but for some years after his establishment in a new government house the Chateau was used for departmental offices. When the government was withdrawn from Montreal, the Chateau served several purposes. For some years the courts were held here, and later the Normal School.

In 1894, the Chateau was sold by the Provincial Government and purchased by the Corporation of the City of Montreal, and in 1895 the Numismatic and Antiquarian Society obtained the building for the purpose of founding an Historical Portrait Gallery and Museum.

THE VAULTS.

No. 1.

In this vault the first printing press in Montreal was set up, in 1776, by Mesplets, who accompanied Benjamin Franklin and the other two envoys who had been sent by Congress in the spring of that year. Mesplets, a Frenchman, remained in Montreal after the Americans withdrew. He opened a printing office on Place Royale, where he published the Montreal Gazette.

No. 2.

1. In this vault may be seen an ancient Caleche, which was the most stylish vehicle in the olden time.
2. Old scales. Belonged to the French Jesuits, and dates to 1683. They were used in a mill at Cap de la Madeleine, near Three Rivers.
T. Lefebvre, Esq.
3. THE RIGAUD BELL. This Bell was cast in London in 1801 for the parish church at Rigaud, where it was in use for many years.
C. de Lery Macdonald, Esq.
4. A wooden pipe of the first water-works in Montreal, 1801-1815.

13. The first fire-engine sent out to Montreal by the Phoenix Fire Insurance Company, in 1805.
Alex. T. Patterson, Esq.

No. 3.

This vault, in the olden time, was used for storage purposes. It was divided into four parts by walls about four feet in thickness, two of which were removed. During the occupancy by the English Governors, this vault was used as a wine cellar.

No. 4.

This vault was the principal kitchen of the Chateau. The great fire-place had a crane on which the pots were hung, and up the chimney is an iron rod on which hams and bacon were smoked. A recess at the side is where a wheel was used in turning the spit, and generally worked by a dog.

No. 5.

This vault was used as a kitchen and bakery. In the side of the fire-place is the capacious oven, in as perfect condition as when in use two centuries ago. In this vault may be seen: The main door and fanlight of the Chapel of Notre-Dame-de-Victoire, built in 1713, demolished in 1900. This Chapel was built to commemorate the destruction of Admiral Walker's fleet, below Quebec, in 1711. Governor de Ramezay took part in the laying of the corner stone of this Chapel.

No. 6.

This vault was used as a pantry or storeroom. In passing out of this vault the great thickness of the walls may be observed. Starting with a width of seven feet, they widen as the arch curves, and the crown of the arch [the thinnest part] is four feet to the floor above.
